The Hungry Crocodile
By DADDY

Jack and Janet, turned into Slumber Sprites, travel to Egypt with Sleepy Woodchuck, Chip and Chipper Chipmuck, Colonel Croaker and Black Snake. While going ashore from the steamer they are snapped up by a Hungry Crocodile.

CHAPTER V

Joking With the Crocodile

SWALLOWED by a Hungry Crocodile!

That is what had happened to Jack and Janet. It had also happened to Chip and Chipper Chipmuck to Colonel Croaker, to Sleepy Woodchuck, and the Black Snake. The Crocodile had taken them all in two great gulps. Jack and Janet scarcely knew what had happened. At one moment they had been on top of the water, watching the Hungry Crocodile, snapping up the rats of Old Gray Rat's gang. The next moment a great cavern had opened before them. They saw rows of glistening teeth and felt the cavern draw them in. Then gurgling darkness.

Jack and Janet felt a thrill of alarm. What was going to become of them? Was this to be their end?

The next moment a great cavern had opened before them

In their excitement they had forgotten they had been turned into Slumber Sprites. No one can harm Slumber Sprites, not even by swallowing them.

They were in darkness an instant. Then presto, they were safe and sound on Hungry Crocodile's back. Sleepy Woodchuck and Black Snake were ahead of them and close after came Chip and Chipper Chipmuck and Colonel Croaker.

"My, this Hungry Crocodile is a greedy chap," chuckled Sleepy Woodchuck. "Let punish his greediness by playing a Slumber Sprite joke on him."

Saying this, Sleepy Woodchuck ran out over the Hungry Crocodile's snout and jumped into the river. Quick as a wink the Hungry Crocodile's jaws snapped and Sleepy Woodchuck vanished. But Sleepy Woodchuck didn't stay vanished. He bobbed up through the Hungry Crocodile's back as pert as ever. Then Black Snake followed, and Colonel Croaker, and Chip and Chipper Chipmuck and Jack and Janet.

"Isn't this a dandy game?" chuckled Sleepy Woodchuck. Jack and Janet agreed. They were having as much fun as though they were sliding on the chutes at a playground. And the Hungry Crocodile seemed to be enjoying it more than any one else. He thought he was getting the biggest meal of his life, not knowing that he was gulping only Slumber Sprites, who were no more solid than a summer breeze.

"Would you like to go for a boat ride?" asked Sleepy Woodchuck, as the game began to grow old.

Yes, Jack and Janet would like to go for a boat ride. But it was a very queer kind of a boat ride Sleepy Woodchuck planned. He snatched a floating stick from the river and tightly grasped one end.

"Hold me out ahead of the Hungry Crocodile's snout and see what happens," he chuckled.

Jack and Janet pushed the stick out until Sleepy Woodchuck was hanging just beyond reach of the Hungry Crocodile's jaws. This was easy as Sleepy Woodchuck in his Slumber Sprite form weighed no more than the air.

The Hungry Crocodile swished the water with his powerful tail and made a grab for Sleepy Woodchuck. But, of course, Sleepy Woodchuck stayed just out of reach. Away went Hungry Crocodile, trying to catch him, and away went Jack and Janet and the others on a jolly ride.

Friday will be told how Jack and Janet get a call back from Egypt.

UTILIZES MOVIES

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 19—(Associated Press Mail)—The Mexican government is using motion pictures to teach various Indian peoples the art of pottery and basket-making. Most of these tribes have known the art in an extremely crude manner and the idea of the government is to teach them modern methods. In view of the great number of illiterates, the pictures are supplemented with lectures.

The Daily Fun Hour

Greek Courtesy Dance

The players choose partners. Two couples face, forming a little square. These squares are repeated by other fours in a circle around the room. Every girl should be at the right hand of her partner. There are three movements, A, B, and C, danced to lively music.

Movement A. Partners clasp hands and slide four steps to the left in a shuttle effect, one couple sliding toward center, the other sliding out of circle, returning to places in four sliding steps. Each square forms a ring, dancing in eight steps around and back.

Movements B. Hands clasped, partners advance three steps to opposite couple, dance back three steps, then all courtesy, advance again four steps and clasp both hands bridgewise with player opposite. In this position all slide in eight steps to center and back to place.

Movement C. Every player joins right hands with the player diagonally opposite, the girls clasping each other's hands, and the men or boys joining hands above them. Thus in windmill formation, all the fours do a whirling dance in sixteen skipsteps, forward and back. Then partners join inside hands, advance three steps toward opposite couple courtesy dance back to place and courtesy again. Lastly, all couples move three steps to the right, facing a new couple and, beginning with a deep courtesy, the dance is reached from the commencement.

Good News Brought Home From Big Isle

Sheriff Clem Crowell and J. P. Cockett, county treasurer, returned from the big island reaching Lahaina early Saturday morning on the Maunakea. Peruvia J. Goodness has gone on to Honolulu. M. G. Paschoal and the other Maui campaigners who went to Hawaii remain there for a few days longer.

Reports brought home by Crowell and Cockett are highly encouraging for they both forecast that the Big Island will come through for Baldwin handsomely. Both say that there were some splendid meetings held during their stay, largely attended and that the wave of enthusiasm for Baldwin appears mounting higher and higher.

Kumalee will be an important factor in Hawaii County, Crowell said yesterday morning and he added he would not be surprised if the independent Democrat would poll a larger vote than the regular candidate of that party.

Such factional differences as exist among Republicans of the Big Island are not considered as working against the success of Baldwin but rather are a stimulus to greater endeavor on the part of every faction.

Crowell says that Hawaii can be put in the Republican column by a fair majority right now.
